Gleanings.

Baptism at the college chapel next Sunday evening.

A large crowd and two confessions at the Sunday evening meeting in the college chapel.

Brother McFaden's promised presence will add pleasure and spice to the coming conference.

Bro. W. W. Summers writes, "two more baptized at our Regular appointment at Pleasant Hill, Ohio; the work moves on."

Bro. Walter Clark in a private letter to us says, baptized two at Almena, Mich., last Sunday and still there is more to follow.

"The influence of the Sunday school in the family," by Dr. Worst, was read at a convention held in the Presbyterian church of Ashland.

The Kanemorado conference will be held at the Pony Creek church, near Morril, Kans., Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug., 2, 3 and 4th.

Brother, are you helping to spend $700,000,000 of the Lord's money annually for tobacco? That is the Devil's price per annum for what he sells to the people of the United States.

Will some one from each congregation, whose progress has never been given to the paper please look up the postal reporters and tell them for us that we would be glad to hear from them?

The transforming process by which man is changed from conformity to non-conformity does not always begin when man becomes a church member but when he becomes a new creature in Christ Jesus.

Some one has sent us a letter from Fair Grove, Mo., but has failed to sign his or her name. We think it was unintentionally omitted, but we cannot be responsible for such carelessness. Anonymous articles are never published by us.

The outlook for the college is growing brighter with each succeeding day, as far as the local patronage is concerned. The confidence of the people of Ashland and vicinity has been gained and we hope and feel that no mistake will be made by any one that will hinder its certain and rapid growth.

Henry Waterson of The Louisville Courier Journal and a lecturer and writer of world wide reputation, will deliver his lecture, "Money and morals" at the opening of Ashland college, Monday Sept. 3rd. All those who desire to hear this really great man lecture should arrange to stay over the Monday following the conference.

Sister D. J. Myers of Homerville, writes us that Brother D. J. has been sick for four weeks, that he is quite poorly and unless helped must soon pass away. Bro. Myers has been a zealous supporter of the cause of the Brethren from its incipency, and all will read the above lines with sorrow.

Notwithstanding the Bible teaches us that it is not wise to compare ourselves among ourselves, it sometimes gives courage and hope to do so. In the matter of missions, no doubt many have felt like ourself, that our effort has been wholly unworthy a body of people making the claim we do of "keeping the whole law." The Methodist church averages only seven cts. per member for missions; the Baptist church only eight cts.; and the largest by any denomination only ten cts. per member. The total amount raised for mission purposes is only one hundredth part of what is spent for tobacco and whiskey.

From a recent circular put out by Dr. Dowie: The ordinance of believer's baptism by Trine Immersion will be administered by Mr. Dowie in the waters of Lake Michigan on Sunday, July 15th and 22d at 2:30 p. m. at Manhattan Beach, Foot of 75th St., when several hundred believers will be baptized. Cable cars on all lines connect with Electric cars on Stony Island Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street to Beach, and Illinois Central Railroad to Windsor Park Depot. All seats free, no charges, all welcome. Free-will offerings only received. "Christ is all." The Divine Healing Home, conducted by Dr. and Mrs. Dowie, 6020 Edgerton Ave., is open, especially for persons from a distance. Circulars containing information can be obtained upon application.

The time is rapidly approaching when we shall meet in National Conference. Questions upon which we shall be called to act are, When and where shall our conference be held? What shall be done to liquidate Ashland University indebtedness? What shall be done to liquidate the Publishing House indebtedness? Who shall the editors be and what shall be the rules governing them?

How and by whom shall the publishing of our literature be managed? How can the mission, sister's and young people's work be advanced?

We hope that the above questions may be amply discussed in all the local churches, and that delegates will come prepared to represent their congregations. It would be a capital idea for every local organization to spend a day in discussing the above questions in connection with all others which you think should be considered by the National conference.

HENRY WATTERSON.

Henry Waterson will be the great attraction here on September 3, according to the arrangements made by Dr. S. S. Garst, the new president of Ashland college. Everybody has heard of Mr. Waterson on account of his great talent as a lecturer and journalist. He will draw many hundreds of people, especially if his address is made free to the public, as Dr. Garst hopes to make it. In addition, O. T. Corson, commissioner of the public schools of Ohio, and other leading educators will be here at the opening of Ashland college, which it is intended shall be made a "big day."

The prospects are that Ashland college will open under very encouraging circumstances, as already nearly 50 students are promised besides those expected from Ashland and vicinity.

Complete classical, commercial and art courses have been prepared. The art department will be under the management of Miss Edna Brinton, whose ability in this line is well known.—Ashland Press.

A DONATION.

FARMERSVILLE, O. July 3, 1894
MR. EDITOR:—Enclosed you will find two dollars, a small mite on the Publishing House debt. I should not like to do without the EVANGELIST for twice what it costs, and hope it may all be paid before Conference. Your sister, L. S. H.
